

AHCC 202: Computer for AH

This course is designed to offer computer literacy and management for allied health profession in the Division of Allied Health Sciences, College of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences. It familiarizes students with basic computer tutorial and information technology as adapted for use of medical health electronic record management such as laptops, PDAs, IPODs including Blackboard and McGraw-Hill Online computer system and basic computer tutorial in collaboration with the Center for Excellence in Teaching, Learning, & Assessment [CETLA]. The multimedia presentations online and classrooms settings will enhance the management of skills related to state-of-the-art medical and health services data management. Online

Credits: 3

Prerequisites/Permissions:

Registration in the Divisions of Nursing and Allied Health Sciences.

Program:

Allied Health Education