

CSCI 472: Systems Management Analysis

This course presents methodology for large-scale system design and analysis using modern semantic analysis techniques. Identification and definition of large-scale (community/industrial-based) problems. Discusses how to select and quantify measures of the severity of the problem. Presents different techniques for modeling alternative solutions to problems.

Credits: 3

Prerequisites/Permissions:

CSCI 375

Program:

Computer Science